

DO YOU WANT A TRAIN FROM TC TO ANN ARBOR?

Learn how rail is taking off in the state and what we can do to make a connection to southern Michigan a reality

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 16 7 P.M. | STATE THEATRE

Join transportation leaders from across the state to learn about new rail projects, including the M-1 Rail project in Detroit, the Washtenaw-Livingston (WALLY) commuter line in Ann Arbor—and plans to explore a passenger train connection to Traverse City.

In 2012, Michigan created its first State Rail Plan, a $10 billion strategy for modernizing the state's rail system. Since then, Michigan has been accelerating rail projects at a pace it hasn't seen since the 19th century. And someday, we may see trains to Traverse City.
